Cited Information: Glenn County Air Pollution Control District (Air District) does not have any CEQA guidelines or Indirect Source Review. The Air District allows use of mitigation strategies from another air district quality management district in California. The Air District does not require CEQA mitigation, but a project can use mitigation strategies from other districts as a voluntary commitment. Air district does not have formal thresholds and does not have a recommendation for threshold use.

For health risk assessments. Ian stated that a cancer risk threshold of 10 per million is consistent with what other air quality management districts recommend but did not say this is a formal recommendation.
